

“She remembered a dream she’d had years ago, where a man walked ever closer in the misty fog, his blue eyes piercing into hers. The day she met Jamie, the dream had become real, and her life had never been the same.”

-Always with You

“Wolves mated for life. Where was he? Where was the echo to her howl, her mate? Was there no other lone wolf, searching the hills for her?”

-Always with You

Love took prisoners regardless of the circumstances;
it broke open the heart
with no regard for consequences.

To know true love, even though it was impossible to keep, had finally cracked her heart open enough to let someone else in.
